r/OnePlus Bot Privacy Policy and legal information

Last updated: 18th August 2020

Your privacy is important to us. However, some user data needs to be collected in order to maintain the quality of service for the bot, to provide support and in order to properly use the bot.

Which personal information is collected, and where do we use it for?

- Reminders.
- Warnings.
- UserIDs.
- Approximate number of messages sent by a user.
- Starred and un starred messages of a user.
- FAQ Entries.
- Messages that have reached the starboard at some point and were reacted to.
- Modmail Threads, their creation date, longevity and message IDs of the messages within and subscribed users.
- All roles of the guild.
- All channels and channel categories of the guild.
- Name and number of usages of a given emote at a given time.
- Amount and type of profanities triggered by a sophisticated filter.

How can I decide which information is collected?

It's important you stay in control of your information. However, it is not possible to opt-out of singular sub-services. Should you decide that your information should not be collected, please cease usage of the Bot immediately.

Should you decide to no longer utilize the Bot, you may request your data to be erased within 30 days as per the GDPR if you are a citizen of the EU. You can do this by sending an email to oneplus.appeals@pm.me with the subject: GDPR Data Removal <Username#0000> <UserID28794795> If your request is incomplete, we cannot acknowledge it and therefore your data will not be removed.

Legal information

The Bot is not an official application from OnePlus or OPPO. You agree to use the Bot at your own risk. The Developers of the Bot is not responsible for any damage done to your device, your computer or any other property.

We cannot promise you, as a user, to always update you when this Privacy Policy has changed. You can check the most recent version here. Important changes will be posted in the announcements channel of the guild.
